

Biography for Associate Professor Janice B. Stockigt

Janice (Jan) Stockigt is a Principal Fellow of The University of Melbourne and Fellow of the Australian Academy of Humanities. For many years her work has been concerned with the music of Jan Dismas Zelenka and the musicians of the Dresden court during the years of the Saxon-Polish Union. In recent times her attention has turned to the establishment by August II of a Catholic chapel in Leipzig's Pleißenburg fortress in 1710, the construction of its organ between 1719 and 1720, and the succession of young Bohemians organists who came to serve in this royal chapel.
